1.	Japanese Prime Minister Takaichi Sanae has held her first telephone talks with her Indian counterpart, Narendra Modi, since taking office last week and called for collaboration for a free and open Indo-Pacific. The telephone talk lasted for about 25 minutes. Takaichi told Modi that Japan and India share fundamental values and strategic interests. She added that Japan intends to continue to work together with India toward realizing a free and open Indo-Pacific, including through the Quad framework of Japan, India, the United States and Australia. Takaichi also said that Japan would like to advance cooperation with India in a

	wide range of fields, including security, economy and people-to-people exchanges, based on a vision for bilateral cooperation that was presented during Modi's visit to Japan in August. She proposed raising Japan-India relations to a new level. In response, Modi congratulated Takaichi on becoming prime minister. He also said he looks forward to further strengthening bilateral relations through advancing concrete cooperation in various areas.
2.	Japan's new PM commits to higher defence spend, ties with India, Quad, PM Sanae Takaichi said she 'looks forward' to promoting the Japan-India Strategic and Global Partnership; 'in order to promote the main pillar of Tokyo's diplomacy, a Free and Open Indo-Pacific, India is a crucial partner,' says an Assistant Minister In a dramatic announcement three days after she was sworn in, Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi said her government will ensure that Japan's defence spending would increase to 2% of its GDP by March 2026, two years ahead of schedule, even as she pledged support for "security partnerships" like the Quad, which includes India. Ms. Takaichi, who said the government's first priority is to tackle inflation and boost fiscal spending, was addressing the Japanese Parliament, or Diet, in an inaugural speech about her agenda in office.
3.	India has a teeming population of workers, tens of millions more than its employers can accommodate. Many other countries have the opposite problem: more jobs than workers. Today, across India's government and business sectors, a movement is gaining steam to begin exporting more workers. The idea, which economists call labor mobility, is to connect young Indians to companies in places with shrinking populations where labor shortages are holding back growth. The challenge for India and its partners overseas is the growing opposition to immigration in many countries. Officials are trying to craft policies to make it easier to move Indian workers abroad swiftly, while ensuring they have viable paths home.
